OUR INTERESTS DEMAND ATTENTION

President Should Look After Domestic Policies.

Something Wrong At Home As Well As In Foreign Countries.

Standing by the President is fine, but we wish the President would stand by us.

Even a President of the United States ought to see that something is wrong right here at home, and instead of trying to get into a scrap with Germany and saving the lives of dead Americans in Mexico, he ought to pay attention to the affairs of this country.

This ought to be the most prosperous era the United States has ever known. All the conditions are ripe for it. The war has created an immense demand for American products and has opened markets hitherto closed to us. Crops are good. There is an abundance of idle money (always a sign of bad times). The labor market has been depleted to a degree by Europeans returning home to fight.

Yet there is no general prosperity. Industry is crippled, labor is living from hand to mouth, energy and enterprise are held back by lack of capital.

This is a problem worthy of the best thought of the President. If his policies have been wrong and have in any way contributed to this abnormal condition, the matter is too serious for mere pride or personal ambition or stiff-neckedness to hold him back. Ninety millions of people are being made unhappy, or less happy, on account of there being something wrong with conditions in the United States.

We honestly believe that "something wrong" is caused by national legislation. We believe the Tariff changes have had something to do with it. We believe ill-advised laws hampering business have had something to do with it. We cannot see what else has changed since the days of prosperity, and, by the simple process of elimination, it seems that these must be the causes for the present depression.

If they are (or of they are not) we know of no weightier problem to which the President could devote his intellect than to the restoration of good times.

As Cleveland said, "It is a condition, not a theory, which confronts us."

We have hard times. We have a depleted Treasury. We have added taxes and less ability to pay them.

We have higher cost of living and less on which to live.

We have business stagnation, when natural conditions are right for business activity.

Without partisan bitterness and without and other desire than to stand by the President, is it not proper to respectfully urge that these matters of importance and worthy of the President's best thought?

Acknowledging the claims of American citizens whose lives are in jeopardy on the seas or in Mexico, is it not more important to look after the welfare of the millions in this country, who are struggling to maintain existence in the face of hardships which are wholly unnecessary and which can, and should, be remedied?

Is there anything any more important for the President of the United States to consider at this time? Is there anything which calls for more disinterested and more patriotic service? Is there anything for which one might better afford to drop partisanship?

The condition cannot be met by theory. High-sounding phrases about "psychology" and the "new freedom" will not fill empty stomachs nor bring work to idle hands.

It is high time for the President to offer a real remedy. His is the power and the glory, and his must be the responsibility. Let him lead the people out of the slough of despond and discouragement. Let him light the fires under cold furnaces. Let him start the life-blood of confidence flowing through the arteries of trade. Then he will have done something worthy of his high place and worthy of the love and affection of the people.

Let the President stand by us.

Huerta a Financier.

I am told that ex-President Huerta of Mexico has recently made more money in our American stock market than his hated foe, Gen. Villa, ever saw in his long career of loot. Huerta seems to be uncommonly practical.

He came to this country but a short time ago, opened an office and began to consort with Wall street bulls and bears as if they hadn't horns and claws. Afraid? Not he.

Mr. Huerta began market operations, based on his apparently sound knowledge of conditions in Europe. Anyhow, he bought stocks by the bale, and he has actually cleared profits amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Only one class of persons has made money in the stock market this year. They are those who believed the following:

1. The war will be long.
2. The allies cannot produce sufficient munitions and food for their own use and must buy from America.
3. That a tremendous rise would occur in all the industrial plants that received these immense orders for war material.

That's what Huerta believed, with the result that he has enough money to buy and sell two or three revolutions in Mexico.

He Is In No Hurry For The War To End.

James E. MacMurray, president of the Acme Steel Goods Co., is a successful manufacturer of flat wire at 2834 Archer avenue, Chicago.

If the war hadn't started he would have been put out of business by the Underwood Tariff.

Germany would have undersold him by $5 less a ton than it costs to manufacture the wire in this country. Cheap labor in the fatherland and the low Underwood Tariff would have done the trick.

Naturally Mr. MacMurray isn't in a hurry for the war to end. If it does the Tariff will have to be revised pretty quickly or he'll have to close his plant and throw several hundred men out of work.

Flat wire is used in the manufacture of hundreds of hardware specialties. It is rolled by special machinery from round wire. It costs $3 a hundred pounds to make it. Two dollars of that is for labor, the rest for material.

Formerly there was a duty of from 35 to 40 per cent. on flat wire, just enough to protect the industry and enable the American manufacturer to compete with those abroad.

The Underwood Tariff reduced this duty to 10 per cent. What happened? Germany, the most efficient manufacturing country in the world, and with the cheapest labor—industrially speaking—contracted to deliver thousands of tons at New York for $5 a ton less than it costs to manufacture the product in this country.

Mr. MacMurray manufactures 3,000 tons of the product a year. If he had continued to operate his plant in competition with Germany he would have lost just $15,000 a year. It would have been cheaper for him to close his plant and go to California.

"It's a matter of cheaper labor, isn't it, Mr. MacMurray?" the manufacturer was asked.

"Of course it is labor," he answered. "It costs us $3 a hundred to manufacture the wire. We pay our boys $15 a week. In Germany the same labor costs but $6."

A Costly Indorsement for Morrow.

"At a meeting of what is known as the German-American Alliance Wednesday night the Republican candidate, Mr. Morrow, was endorsed as the candidate of the Association. If any doubt before existed as to the forces that nominated the Republican ticket, at Lexington, this endorsement removes that doubt."—Louisville Evening Post.

WHY BANKS ARE FULL OF MONEY

Because Industrial Producers Do Not Borrow for Improvements.

Bankers in touch with the commercial situation say that were it not for the war we would be in the throes of a business depression on account of the low Tariff act. Except to increase the output of war supplies, manufacturers who are not adding to their plants are erecting new mills. The specter of non-Protection still hangs over their works.

One thing which would encourage business men everywhere would be the calling of Congress in special session for the enactment of a new Tariff law which will give to the Government the revenue that is sorely needed, and at the same time establish Protection which would be in force when the war is ended. The exigencies of the Government require this and business generally needs this particular encouragement. An exigency exists which calls upon the President and leaders of his political party to cast theories aside. Party pride should give way to patriotic motives.

The doors must be opened in order that a wholesome and beneficial use may be made of the funds which are piling up in the banks. A Tariff law which will afford Protection to American industries and provide an adequate revenue to the Government is the one thing that is sorely needed at this time to start every branch of industry on the road to the greatest prosperity that this nation has ever witnessed. It is no answer to say that our imports are now low and that Protection is not needed because foreign manufacturers are not in a position to cope with the American mills. What the American manufacturer wants is an assurance for the future. The moral effect of adopting the policy of Protection would give to the American capitalist the solid rock which he now needs as a foundation upon which to build plans for the future.

Surplus funds are waiting to be used in legitimate enterprises, and great harm may come if worthy projects are held in check through lack of confidence. Wild schemes, promulgated by irresponsible promoters, will be fostered unless the Government encourages honest endeavor.

L. L. Embry.

Mr. Embry, who is making the race for the Republican nomination for Representative, was born 36 years ago on a farm in Select precinct, spent his boyhood on the farm and received his early education in the public schools. Later he attended the Morgantown Seminary. He began teaching in the public schools in 1898, and has taught each year since, and at the same time has continued farming. Mr. Embry's father who was Vinson Embry, died while the subject of this sketch was only 17 years old and at a time when he was bending every energy in securing an education, leaving an invalid mother and small children, brothers and sisters, dependent on him for support. With unusual handicap, Mr. Embry has made his way in life and has accomplished what few men so situated could have accomplished. He is a self-made man. He married Miss Eva Balze, in 1903, and they have three bright daughters. Mr. Embry is a good speaker and, if elected will be able to make his presence felt on the floor of the House of Representatives. He has never aspired to office before and now asks your support in the primary, August 7, 1915.

MR. REDFIELD'S ABSURD CONTENTION

If the War Has Cured Bad Business, Then the War Did Not Make Business Bad.

When a man has a theory which he applies to the solution on any given economic situation he naturally looks about for facts to confirm it and he is fortunate indeed if he finds them. Secretary of Commerce Redfield finds it a part of his duty to insist upon the fact that prosperity has returned to this fortunate country and that it is here to stay and to work for the rehabilitation and to work for the rehabilitation of whatever has been lost in the slackening up of industries and the failing off of employment for the workers. Singularly forgetting the fact that the slowing up of business began a number of months before the European war war, he still attributes that depression to the war which has since wrought a cure in the tremendous demand for certain lines of our manufactured goods and for the making of others which the fighting nations need. Wherever that influence prevails, Mr. Redfield sees the evidences of permanent prosperity, and even should the war stop next week he would expect the same cause to produce the same effect indefinitely and to continue to shed abroad the luster of glory in the light which his department basks.

Every fresh order from Europe is a new evidence to Secretary Redfield's logical mind that the success of the new economic plan adopted early in the year is assured, and that the war which at first appeared as a bird of prey turns out to be the bearer of benefits and to come with healing on its wings. The change in the Tariff has not depressed business he thinks, even though we had business depression immediately following its going into operation, and that condition was intensified by the uncertainties of the early months of war. But now that a change has come he feels that it justifies his assumption that prosperity was on the way, wafted hither by the new Tariff arrangement and is now driven in and clinched by the orders for war material and the surplus food which we have to send abroad.

It is a little singular that the war which caused the business depression should later have cured it, as Mr. Redfield seems to believe, but probably he finds a warrant in the old prescription of "a hair of the same dog" to cure his bite. We are well aware that there has been a quickening in certain lines of trade and commerce and we, of course, know whence that impulse comes. Moreover, we believe that it is a good policy to make out of that improvement all that we legitimately can, for we certainly need whatever of benefit it will bring. We will make hay while this incidental sun of unusual commercial activity shines upon us, knowing that its beams may not long continue to afford us industrial warmth and that when it pales in the dawn of peace we shall be compelled to fall back upon our ordinary and everyday resources.

Notwithstanding the assistance which the war has given to our trade and commerce, there are still complaints of the lack of employment in some of the cities, and one of Mr. Redfield's fellow members of the Cabinet, Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor, says that there are more than 350,000 idle people in New York City who have not been yet supplied with work by the prevailing prosperity which Secretary Redfield sees so plainly. We sincerely trust that the supplying of the wants of the 110,000,000 people of this country who must after some fashion be fed and clothed, will gradually bring back our home industries upon a solid basis, even if it is not so feverishly brilliant as the prosperity from rush orders and double shifts working night and day. We shall make what we can of that sort of thing while it lasts, but we distrust its permanency and prefer the more normal conditions which possess the greater staying power.

New Tax Law.

Newspapers all over the state are commenting on probable changes in the Revenue Law if the Tax Amendment is again ratified by the voters in the November Election.

The Amendment as is now pretty well understood merely gives the General Assembly power to divide property in classes, but in the event of a lower rate being fixed upon personal property than upon real estate any new law must be submitted to the people before it can be enforced.

In Illinois where a similar Amendment will be voted on this fall the referendum clause was left out as it was assumed that future Legislatures could handle the question effectively and could inform themselves quicker and better than the entire population of the State.

Nearly every candidate for office has expressed himself as favorable to a change in the Tax Laws but so far but few have indicated what kind of change they prefer.

The last two general assemblies in almost unanimously agreeing to submit the Amendment permitting classification left no doubt as to their views but the members had been elected then and could afford to come out in the open.

The long standing stock argument of the stump speaker that classification of property means less taxes for the owners of securities and more on real estate has been effectually exploded, but it sounds well and there are some who still believe in it.

If, as shown by the last Tax Commission's report, Real Estate and other tangible property, pays ninety per cent and intangible property only ten per cent, the reduction in the rate on the latter would cut but a small figure in the revenue anyway, but as a matter of fact by classifying such property and taxing it as in other States, in proportion to its earnings, the revenue has been vastly increased and the taxes on Real Estate actually lowered.

It is like developing an entirely new source of revenue.

In Minnesota under the old law, such as we have in Kentucky, there were only six thousand people on the Tax rolls who listed certain kinds of intangible property at fourteen millions, but within a few years after the change to classification seventy three thousand people listed such property at two hundred millions, and the revenue has been increased 1300 per cent and the taxes on real estate already reduced in that State.

The experience of other States could be quoted indefinitely but there are none so blind as those who will not see and when the State debt, now over three million dollars, climbs a few millions more and some desperate legislation is essayed, as happened recently in Kansas where the assessment of Real Estate was increased from 270 millions to 1,573 millions at one fell swoop then perhaps the people will wake up and demand justice in Taxation.

In the meantime the millions of taxable property in hiding and escaping all Taxation will be harder to locate, if it is not driven away entirely, and real estate will have the additional load to carry because it cannot be hidden or moved away. If classification works well in other States why should it not prove successful in Kentucky?

Because people refuse to pay a confiscatory tax and complacently perjure themselves to escape is no reason why they would not prefer to contribute a reasonable and, in the aggregate, a large amount to save their self-respect if nothing more and especially when it relieves the load on their Real Estate.

The office seeker who dodges the issue is no friend of the people and if he is laboring under a lack of knowledge let him get the Reports of the Tax Commissions in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana and Kansas and see how those and other States have profited by a change or lost by timidity respecting Tax Reforms.

Our own State Tax Commission says the Law in Kentucky is "inadequate, unfair and unequal" and several Legislatures have condemned it.

The Tax Amendment is but a step forward and merely blazes the way but as it has been approved by two General Assemblies and was once ratified by the people it is no longer regarded as "a nigger in the wood pile," and no man need feel ashamed to advocate it. A reform must come and pretty soon or everybody will regret it.

WISE LAW INCREASES CROPS

Reclamation Act Passed By Republicans In 1902.

Has Given 1,300,000 Acres of Land to Countrys Use Valued At $15,700,000.

Washington, July 10.—Among the numerous achievements to which the Republican party can justly point with pride is the enactment of the reclamation law, passed in 1902 by a Republican Congress and signed by a Republican President. Under the projects have been constructed affording water supply sufficient for 1,300,000 acres of land. During 1913, the crop production on land already supplied with water exceeded in value $15,700,000.

This production was from an area of only 1,700,000 acres then under cultivation. The last annual report of the Reclamation Service shows that with relatively small additional expense, the total acreage supplied with water can be increased to 3,000,000 acres.

Considering the immense amount of work to be done in the construction of reclamation projects on a plan designed to be permanent, it is remarkable what rapid progress has been made. The first considerable amount of irrigation on government projects was reached in 1906, when 22,000 acres of arid land was supplied with water. In 1913, which is the latest date for which statistics are available, the total of 700,000 acres was reached.

The reclamation of arid land under government projects is still in its infancy, and has necessarily been slow because both the government officials and the farmers have been compelled to learn by experience what methods are most successful and satisfactory. Development will be far more rapid in the future. Vast areas of land that was previously abandoned to sage brush, jack rabbits and coyotes, will, for all time to come, make pleasant homes for thrifty American farmers, produce food for residents of American cities and add enormously to the total wealth of the nation.

These irrigation farmers are raising alfalfa, fruit, grain, vegetables—practically every other farm product that can be grown anywhere. The alfalfa supplies feed for live stock. The live stock furnished raw material for the packing houses. The laborers in the packing houses are buyers of all kinds of food and clothing and other necessities of life. The $15,000,000 of products on irrigated land in 1913, was but the beginning of a chain of business that furnished profitable employment for thousands of men and women.

The framers of the reclamation act anticipated that development must be slow, and therefore, they provided for settlement by homeseekers under a plan of payment by instalment covering a ten year period, which period Congress has since extended to 20 years. The purpose of the act was to provide more farm homes and extend the area of productive lands. While the act was a departure from accepted ideas as to the proper scope of government, experience has proven the wisdom of government initiative in an undertaking so large that private enterprise could not be expected to invest unless given concessions that might ultimately be found against the interests of the homeseekers.

Altho President Wilson has declared that the Republican party has not had a new idea in thirty years, the Reclamation act stands upon the statute books alongside the pure food law, the postal saving bank law and the parcel post law as a mute but permanent evidence of the constructive policies of that party.

FRIDAY, JULY 16.

Lend your presence to the good roads meeting tomorrow.

In Mexico bullets are regarded as a necessity and bread a luxury.

No trial of Thaw would seem complete without Jerome in it somewhere.

It is evident that Huerta has not been impressed by Bryan's peace arguments.

Be kind to your neighbor. Some day he may be on the jury that is trying your case.

Both Germany and Britain in replying to America protests, give excuses but no reasons.

It is reported that Panama Exposition will also run next year in order to cover expenses. Better keep it going two more years and get the benefit of one year under a Republican administration.

Ohio County Republicans are supporting Earl Huntsman, of Allen County, for clerk of the Court of Appeals. He lives in an adjoining district and Allen County has always stood by Ohio County men.

Under all the circumstances it will be hard to keep "Bob" Slack's majority for next year below 1,500 at the November election. There is no question about his qualifications or his worthiness. It is a safe bet that a lot of disgusted Democrats will stay out of the primary and vote for Slack and Smith.

President Wilson, members of his cabinet and pretty much everybody else has quit predicting the prosperity wave. Only the Louisville Evening Post has the temerity to say anything about it. It has announced several times that it is here. It advises its readers, who are doubtful, to put on green glasses and "look close."

Mr. Tanner should leave out the tariff and confine himself, in his speeches, to Mr. Ringo. His assertion, that the Democratic tariff had enabled us to get 25 pounds of sugar for a dollar at Heflin last Saturday was a bad break. If he tries to "sweeten" the voter on that sort of stuff he will find himself short about 12 pounds to the dollar.

Every few days the Wilson prosperity produces a bank failure. The one at Livermore is the latest in this locality. During the sixteen years of Republican rule no more prosperous town existed in Western Kentucky than Livermore. Now business is dead there, and was dead before the war began too. It began to decline with the advent of the Wilson administration.

Earl C. Huntsman, of Scottsville, Allen County, is a Republican candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals and we believe that there are many good reasons why the Republicans of the State should nominate him August 7th. Mr. Huntsman is the only candidate South or West of Louisville asking for this office. In 1908 Western Kentucky gave the Republican candidate for President in round numbers 90,000 votes. This year Western Kentucky cannot have the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Attorney General, the Auditor, the Secretary of State nor the Commissioner of Agriculture because they have no candidates for those offices and under the law it is now too late to file for nominations. Therefore we believe that it is only fair and right that the people of the mountains vote for Mr. Huntsman for this nomination August 7th and give that vast territory of western Kentucky representation on the State ticket.

BE CONSISTENT.

"The German-American Alliance of Louisville at a meeting last night endorsed the candidacy of the Hon. Vernon (Ind.) Republican.

E. J. McDermott for the Democratic nomination for governor. The resolution of indorsement was offered by Charles Neumeier and seconded by Alderman Fred Schwenker. The organization had previously indorsed E. P. Morrow for the Republican gubernatorial nomination."—Louisville Times.

Now, what can the Post say. In order to discredit Morrow and make a lie look like the truth, it misrepresented the action of the Louisville German American Alliance by asserting it had endorsed him as their candidate, when in fact it had endorsed him for the Republican nomination. Not content, it lies again by referring to the "forces that nominated the Republican ticket at Lexington," knowing that the Republicans are compelled by law to nominate their ticket along with the Democrats on August 7, in the primary election. Now the same alliance has gone on record as favoring the candidacy of Mr. McDermott, the Post's candidate. Does this show the "forces" behind McDermott, Mr. Knott?

Saved From Themselves.

"Does the oracle imagine that federal legislation controls the balance of trade?" inquires our Democratic contemporary. Not exactly. Our imagination endeavors to keep its feet on the ground. But it is quite apparent that a great effort is being made to make the country believe that our billion dollar trade balance is to be credited to the Wilson administration. "I don't know how I done it, but I did," crowed the man who fell out of the window and landed on his feet, and so they would have us attribute this result of the war to a kind of necromancy worked by the Democratic party subconsciously or in a fit of somnambulism. Now, a favorable balance of trade is nice thing to have in the family. It contributes quite a good deal to our prosperity, and influences in a way the size and number of the pay envelopes. It has always kept steady company with the Republican government, for while federal legislation cannot control the trade balance it may have, and usually does have, a strong influence in lifting or lowering it. Last year, when the war opened, Democratic legislation had weighted down our side of the scales and lifted the foreign side until the balance was against us. It would be against us now, and our money be going out faster than the foreigners' money would be coming in if the war had nullified Democratic tariff laws in that respect and reversed the current of commerce. There would have been no such reversal under Republican administration, for the simple reason that the current would have been in the same direction—toward prosperity, or, rather, with prosperity, instead of away from it. Nothing short of a world cataclysm could have averted the disastrous consequences of the application of Democratic principles and theories to our laws of trade. The government is now wrestling with the problem of a deficit caused by increased expenditures and decreased revenues, but the country as a whole, because of the extraordinary foreign demand for some of our products, and the splendid crops, neither of which can be credited to the administration, is in fairly good condition. Business is slowly recovering and the prospects are brighter than they have been for eighteen months, but there is no political capital for the Democratic party in the fact.

Elimination of Business.

Many people overlook the indirect effect of industrial depression upon every line of business. Just now, for instance, attention has been directed to the fact that although this country has received enormous orders for shoes for the warring nations of Europe, yet the shoe industry is experiencing exceptionally dull times. The reason is not difficult to find. A pair of shoes may easily be made to wear double length of time. The man who, in good times, would discard a shabby pair of shoes and buy a new pair will, in hard times, have a small patch on the uppers and a new half sole nailed on, and then wear the repaired shoes until he gets thoroughly ashamed of them. Parents who would encourage their children to wear shoes in good times will encourage them to go barefoot when money is scarce. All this makes dull times for the dealer in shoes, who, by making his clothes wear twice as long, cuts down the trade of the clothing dealer. The clothing dealer makes up his loss by letting his house go another year without painting, and the painter and paint dealer must economize in some other respect. It is a simple process of elimination of business, but it could not be understood by the Tariff tinkers who started all the trouble in 1913 by enacting a law which invited the cheap labor of Europe to come in and take the trade that belonged by right to the workmen of the United States.—Mount Vernon (Ind.) Republican.

TO SERVE HIS COUNTRY

Edison Will Head Advisory Board For Navy.

Submarine Warfare One of Great Problems to be Considered By Board.

West Orange, N. J. July 12.—Thomas A. Edison has accepted an invitation from Secretary Daniels to head the advisory board of civilian inventors, for a bureau of invention and development, to be created by the navy department. His acceptance will go forward immediately to Washington, where new plans await the word of the man "who can turn dreams into realities."

Among the great problems which will be laid before the investigators is submarine warfare. Secretary Daniels, in a letter written last Wednesday asking Mr. Edison's help, said he felt sure that with his brain to help them the officers of the navy will be able "to meet this new danger with new devices that will assure peace to our country by their effectiveness."

In the letter Secretary Daniels said, "I have been intending for some time to write you, expressing my admiration at the splendid patriotic attitude you have taken as reported by the public press, refusing to devote your great inventive genius to warlike subjects except at the call of your country."

Mr. Edison in an interview recently published in a New York newspaper talked of the advisability of establishing such an advisory board of inventors, and expressing a willingness to serve thereon.

Washington, July 12.—The development of Secretary Daniel's idea of strengthening the national defense by centralizing the inventive genius to help perfect the navy as a fighting machine has hinged almost wholly on Edison's reply, and the request that he head the advisory board. Naval officers generally are enthusiastic over the proposed innovation, and predicted once the new bureau is running great improvements in the navy's construction and organization will follow.

Joint Debates.

Judge J. S. Glenn and Judge T. F. Birkhead, opposing candidates for the democratic nomination for Circuit Judge in this district, are engaging in a series of joint debates, which are keeping pace with the July weather for heat and possible bad results for both of them.

The writer heard them at Heflin last Saturday afternoon. Although both of them appeal to the Democracy of the district to the shame of our election laws, not a word was said about politics or political issues. It was a personal tirade from first to last of the two hours discussion. Judge Glenn opened the fire works with an hour and fifteen minutes and closed in fifteen minutes after Judge Birkhead had one hour and fifteen minutes. He attacked Birkhead for not keeping his promise, made six and twelve years ago, not to run for a third term for this office. He also attacked Birkhead's record in office showing that a much larger per cent of his appealed cases are reversed than are affirmed. The defunct bank cases at Owensboro were also taken up by Judge Glenn and he showed that the depositors have lost about $90,000 in interest and depreciation in property by the delays in winding up the business.

Judge Birkhead admitted that he had promised he would not run for a third time, but contended that the force of Judge Glenn's argument was broken by the fact that he had voted for Judge Owen twelve years ago for a third term, and had voted for Congressman Johnson for a fourth term. He also claimed he was forced to make the race by an overwhelming pile of petitions, including more than 3,000 Democratic voters of the district.

In his rejoinder, Judge Glenn said these petitions were prepared more than two years ago at the instance of Judge Birkhead and were circulated by men who were paid $3.00 per day for their services, and that the Judge had been guilty of an attempt to drive out all chance of opposition long in advance of the election.

Judge Birkhead announced a long list of appointments for Ohio County points running up almost to the primary and invited Judge Glenn to be present. Judge Glenn said he would accept so far as possible and notified Judge Birkhead that at these appointments he would discuss the Ohio County bank failures and their disposition in the Circuit Court to date.

Mr. Lawrence Tanner, candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney spoke about thirty minutes after the candidates for Judge concluded.

Unlike them he undertook to make a political speech defending the National administration. He began by telling his astonished audience that the lowering of the tariff by the Democrats had enabled them to buy 25 pounds of sugar for a dollar. Noticing the question marks and broad grins on the faces of his hearers, he said they would be able to buy it at that if it hadn't been for the war. After a few more equally absurd statements, Mr. Tanner dropped political questions and devoted the rest of his time to telling stories and poking fun at his opponent Mr. Ringo. In this role he made a much better impression than in defending the beneficial results of the Democratic tariff.

Protect Dried Fruits.

In times past insects have done much damage to dried fruits. Where only a small quantity is dried for home use, little effort is made generally to kill the insects or to prevent them from propagating in the fruits, consequently the loss has been large.

It takes considerable time and labor to dry fruits even where there are evaporators, hence it is well worth much effort to prevent insects from eating and otherwise injuring it after it is dried.

The department of agriculture has made investigations and finds that there are two kinds of insects that harm the dried fruits—the Indian meal moth and the dried fruit beetle. It seems that the fruit becomes affected with these insects in the fields, in the fruit house, in the warehouse and in the grocery store. To prevent this danger it is recommended that the fruit be sterilized before it is packed and by the use of containers through which the insects can not enter.

Dried fruit is usually processed in some manner before being packed, in order to make its appearance more attractive. Figs, for example, are frequently dipped in boiling brine, and this in itself is sufficient to destroy all insect life. Other fruits, however, such as the peach, are dipped in cold or lukewarm water. In such cases the addition of a belt heater is suggested as an effective means of destroying insects. By running fruit in a series of belts through a chamber the temperature of which is maintained at 180 degrees Fahrenheit, satisfactory sterilization can be secured. By adjusting the speed of the belt the time that the fruit remains in the heater can, of course, be easily regulated. The heater should be so arranged that the fruit is delivered into a screened packing room, which will insure it against contamination before packing.

The greatest part of the infestation, however, occurs after packing, and in consequence the sterilization of the cartons is of great importance. These should be sealed after having been filled and before they are placed in the warehouses or cars. In this way the fruit is not only protected against infestation but is preserved for long periods in the condition in which it was packed. Fiber board packages have been found satisfactory containers for the fruit, and sealing can be done in several ways. Machines have been invented, for example, which will rapidly seal small packages of fruit, and at a moderate cost.

The Ohio County Fiscal Court was in Session Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The road question in its various phases was considered. It was ordered that bids should be advertised for on the construction of the pike on the Centertown road heretofore provided for. Every member of the Court was present.

In the drawing for places on the primary ballot conducted by County Clerk Blankenship, Tuesday, Embry won first place in the race for Representative and Thorpe first place in the contest for Circuit Court Clerk. The others drew in the following order, Carl M. Taylor, 2nd; C. P. Keown 3rd; Otto C. Martin, 4th; and Wallace Riley 5th. Everybody seemed satisfied. In the Democratic race for clerk McKinney won 1st place. Philipps had no opposition for Representative and hence his name will not have to go on the ballot.

Mr. Rufus Baird, who is an employe of the Standard Oil Company, and in charge of their delivery wagon out of Beaver Dam, happened to a serious accident on the levee North of Rough River Tuesday. His team became frightened at a covered movers wagon and backed off the levee embankment overturning his wagon and throwing the horses into the ditch. Baird tried to jump when he saw the wagon was going over, and was caught under one of the horses. He sustained a crushed ankle, and numerous bruises about the head and body. He was rescued by Mr. A. M. Barnett and Alex. Vick, a colored man who were working near by. The man who drove the covered wagon and who was the innocent cause of Mr. Baird's trouble, also rendered all the assistance possible. Dr. Tichenor was soon on the scene with his auto and Mr. Baird was brought to town and given temporary aid. He was taken to his home at Beaver Dam by Drs. Tichenor and Ford where the leg was set but it is thought he will lose the foot. He was doing well at last accounts.

Plans to Change State Troops to Volunteer Force.

Washington, July 14.—Plans for increasing the size of the army by converting the State militia commands into a force of volunteers are being worked out by the War Department. Officers of the Kentucky militia, it is understood, have been asked their opinion of the project, the volunteers to be directly under control of the President and subject to a form of compulsory military service.

If a bill is passed containing this idea it is said the Federal Government will withdraw its support of the militia regiments and at once begin the organization of volunteers, drilled and trained within the State, but subject to Federal control in time of war.

Equipment would be withdrawn from the militia, and, if the State desired to keep such an organization of its own, it would be forced to equip it out of State funds. This would probably result in the formation of State constabulary forces in Kentucky similar to those maintained in Texas and Pennsylvania. The volunteers would be paid and kept in a state of preparedness at armories furnished by the State.

Carranza Men Capture Mexico City.
Washington, July 12.—Gen Pablo Gonzales has occupied Mexico City, according to information given by Carranza officials to American consular officers at Vera Cruz tonight.

No details were given in the messages, which reached here late tonight, but the advices were regarded as probably correct, as the Carranza forces have been reported earlier in the day as in the outside district of the city itself.

Whether any fighting took place in the streets or the Zapata forces had evacuated was not stated.

The fall of Monclovia, in the State of Choaulla, was reported tonight by the Carranza agency, which said its dispatches reported the Villa defenders had been routed after a pitched battle. An advance against Piedras Negras was in progress, the statement said, and there was panic in the city. It was said a Villa force of 300 had been captured at Barroteran.

Court Notes.

PREACHER KILLS HIS LANDLORD

Rev. Powell Stabs William Allen Over Whipping of Child.

Louisville, Ky., July 10.—Rev. George L. Powell, a Baptist minister, tonight killed William Allen and probably mortally wounded Allen's wife, Mrs. Irene Allen, after, according to his story, he returned home and found the Allens whipping their baby girl.

Powell was arrested on a charge of murder, and is in jail.

According to Powell, he remonstrated with the couple against the punishment and a quarrel ensued.

According to the police, Powell drew a knife with a blade 4 inches long and stabbed Allen to death.

Mrs. Allen was wounded when she attempted to separate the men.

Powell is a bachelor and lived with the Allens.

After killing Allen he called up the police and told them to arrest him.

Mrs. Allen was taken to the City Hospital. Little hope is held for her recovery.

For some time Powell has been in Louisville, where he has held revivals. When he was arrested among the things found in his pocket was a small bible.

Co. H in Camp.

Under command of Capt. J. M. DeWeese and Lieutenant C. B. Shown Co. H left yesterday morning over the M. H. and E. for Owensboro, where the boys will join the other companies of the 3rd Regiment State Guard, under Col. Henry, for ten days encampment. The company had about 70 men, probably the largest number on any previous trip. They were all in fine fettle and will give a good account of themselves and take high rank as they have always done. It is thought several of the members of Co. H have a good show to make the National rifle contest at Jacksonville, Fla.

This list is now in the hands of the Sheriff, who is a member of the board of commissioners and it is open to your inspection at any time up to July 23. You are invited to make any suggestions you may desire with reference to this matter. A. D. KIRK, Ch'm'n.

Death of Mr. John Shown.

In the death of "Uncle" John Shown at his home, near Bada last Sunday, Ohio County loses one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens. Mr. Shown was in his 95th year, having only recently celebrated his birthday with a large gathering of friends, relatives and neighbors in attendance. He was sick only a few days having been a remarkably healthy and vigorous man. He was a strict member of the church and was noted for his honesty and integrity. After funeral services his remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground Monday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering of mourning friends and relatives.

Robt. B. Crabtree Instantly Killed By Lightning.

Robert Crabtree was struck by a bolt of lightning and killed Monday evening while standing in the barn on the farm of William Calhoun, south of Rome, on the Calhoun road. Young Crabtree and his father had delivered wheat to the city during the day. On making their last trip they went into the barn to avoid the storm they saw approaching. Both of the men waited for some time until they thought the rain had subsided sufficiently to continue their homeward trip. As young Crabtree advanced to the door of the barn to look out his father called to him not to go out, as the lightning was breaking fiercely. The young man started turning to make some reply, when a terrific crash was heard and he crumpled to the ground.

The beam end of the barn was hit by the bolt, which passed down directly through the young man's body. His trousers became ignited. The older man rushed to his son and extinguished the fire, but found, as he believed, that his son was dead.

Dr. Edward Barr was hurriedly summoned from Rome, but life had been extinct for some time when he arrived. The man was taken to the home of his father, John B. Crabtree, on the farm of Mr. Calhoun, some distance away. He is survived by his father and mother, two brothers and four sisters. The funeral services will be conducted this morning at Brushy Fork church at 11 o'clock, with interment following in the church burying ground.—Owensboro Messenger.

CLAUDE BLANKENSHIP.

C. O. C. C.

R. P. Green.

A large number of teachers who attended the teachers institute here last week expressed themselves enthusiastically in favor of Prof. Green for State Supt. of Public Instruction. Many of these teachers have attended the Western State Normal and know Prof. Green personally. Those who have this acquaintance with him know him to be a man of the highest type of character; a very fine teacher and highly qualified for the position he seeks. They also know him to be a friend to the young people of this state and a friend to the young men and ladies who are devoting themselves to the profession of teaching or to the cause of education in any manner. Many others know him personally and remember him for having conducted the Ohio County Teachers' institute at this place two years ago.

Since Prof. Stillwell of Beaver Dam has decided not to make the race, it is almost sure that Prof. Green will get every vote in Ohio County at the August primary. From what is known of him this community and from what was said of him among the teachers it would seem there is absolutely no opposition to him; but, on the other hand there is a splendid sentiment in his favor, which will last not only through the primary, but through the general election in November.

HARRY THAW DECLARED SANE

Slayer of Stanford White Not Paranoiac, Say Boxmen After Hour's Deliberation.

New York, July 14.—Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, was declared sane by a jury in the supreme court after about an hour's deliberation at 3:45 p. m. to-day.

Justice Hendrick reserved decision as to the disposition of Thaw.

The court's decision in the matter, Justice Hendrick said, would be announced next Friday at 10:30 a. m. The jury handed in a written verdict. The clerk receiving it, told the foreman that the question for the jury to decide was whether Thaw was sane and asked if they had reached a decision. The foreman said they had.

"Is your decision that Thaw is sane?" the clerk asked.

"Yes," the foreman replied.

Thaw smiled broadly. His mother, sitting a few feet away, seemed much agitated. John B. Stanchfield, chief of Thaw's counsel, was on his feet almost immediately with a motion that the court declare vacant the commitment issued by Justice Dowling under which Thaw was sent to the Matteawan Asylum.

There were other things to be considered, Justice Hendrick said, in addition to declaring vacant the commitment. To-morrow, the Justice added, he would consider any motions that Thaw's counsel might see fit to make. In the meantime Thaw was to be retained in the custody of the Sheriff.

The jury reached a decision in forty-eight minutes after it retired. The decision probably ends a fight of more than nine years by Thaw to obtain his liberty. With the exception of the time spent by Thaw out of the State after his escape from Matteawan August 17, 1913, until his return Thaw has been in custody ever since the night of June 25, 1906, when he shot and killed Stanford White.

Benefited by Chamberlain's Liniment

"Last winter I used Chamberlain's Liniment for Rheumatic pains, stiffness and soreness of the knees, and can conscientiously say that I never used anything that did me so much good."—Edward Craft, Elba, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.

The American Dollar.

The American dollar is no longer a vessel but a peer. In fact, in the matter of exchange, it has become an over lord, and that bloated aristocrat, the British pound sterling, is now humbly taking off its hat to our haughty dollar mark when he meets him in the marts of commerce.

The alteration of their financial positions illustrates the alternation that has been brought about by the war in the situation here and abroad. Great Britain may still be mistress of the seas, but she is no longer undisputed mistress of the financial

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."—Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work. In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in home, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

world. She and other countries are dependent upon us for many of the necessities of everyday life and for a large part of the means of continuing the struggle in which they are engaged. Under the circumstances the American dollar has naturally acquired a new value and a new dignity. But there is a hereafter for the mammoth war debts which are piling up abroad, and we cannot look with any real complacency on causes which are straining the resources of the wealthiest nation in the world. For the present, everything goes well with us and the American dollar has gained several inches in height in comparison with the British unit of exchange. But what will happen after the war is a question of finance as well as militarism.

Calves and Lambs.

The London mail recently said: "It is unfair for selfish people to eat veal and lamb, which could be grown into beef and mutton for the hard times that are coming." That was produced because the skeleton of starvation stalks beyond the battlefield. But, here in America, some of us said the same thing several years ago. There never has been and never will be any justification for the slaughter of little calves and little lambs. It is one of the very biggest of all elements in the present high cost of living. It is one thing above all others that has made meat prices practically prohibitive to persons of small means in the cities. Nobody profits by it. The producer would realize much more money if he grew his animals to maturity or near it, and the consumer would eat meat at a price not so dreadfully draining on his purse. No calf under a year old should be sold for slaughter. No lamb should be butchered until it is out of the class commonly known as "spring lamb." Without any war, we have reached the point where the sort of waste-fulness must cease or else we must become a nation of vegetarians.

McHenry landed a game from Rockport Sunday evening, score being three and two.

The same teams will play at McHenry Sunday July 18, and McHenry and Nelson Creek, Saturday.

What about this, old reliable Rogers has been to bat 14 times in the last 3 games. Has got 3 triples, two doubles and six singles and three sacrifices. Can you beat it? He also made a one handed catch in center field that would make a big leaguer sit up and take notice, and will you also notice that Parrot who certainly is throwing some ball cut down 15 swatters Sunday evening. Certainly has some smoke and glad to say have seven more just as good. Goodall 1st, McKinney 2nd, and that Wilson who is around on the 3rd sack, Ward right field and Maddox left field and what about that noisy Thorpe who is scooping the dust at the initial plate. Lookout Jack the prize fighter is right after you.

We overheard a nice compliment passed on two of our home boys at Hartford the other day. Some big fan said, "I'll just tell you that Jack Thorpe is the best catcher that ever hit this park, and Oscar Reid is the hottest fellow I ever saw on second base." Thank you old pal, glad to hear you, come on with another, which I know you would if you had seen Thorpe pitch that shut out the other day against the hardest hitting team in the county.

Behind Time.

There is a Chicago man, dwelling in one of the suburbs, who goes into the city every day to look after a mail order business.

One afternoon last winter he took the train for his home, but a terrific snowstorm was raging, and about half-way to his suburb the train was snowed in. All night the passengers were imprisoned. Early in the morning they managed to reach a nearby telegraph station, from which the Chicago man sent the following message to his office: "Will not be in the office today. Have not got home yesterday yet."

State Plans to Import Mexican Quails. Frankfort, Ky., July 10.—Pheasants and quails will be imported into Kentucky by the State Game and Fish Commission this year, and to forestall the disappointment of last fall when the Government forbade the shipment of quails from Mexico on account of 'disease' among the birds received into the United States, the commission has asked A. B. Melvan of the Bureau of Animal Industry, to send an expert into Mexico to ascertain whether the disease exists there or caused by unsanitary conditions in the shipments.

If the birds can be imported, 5,000 pairs will be bought for Kentucky, but Mexico is the only place where the birds can be secured for stocking.

LATEST WAR NEWS

Monday.
United States.—The German reply to the American note is in the hands of the Secretary of State at Washington, and, after a careful study of the document, Secretary Lansing will proceed to Cornish N. H. to confer with President Wilson. Advice from Washington indicates that the United States Government will act with deliberation before deciding upon the policy to be adopted with respect to the situation which high officials at Washington are convinced has reached a critical stage. Action by the United States for at least another week.

Russia.—Reports from the Eastern theater of war are meager in detail and except for the fact that the Austro-German advance, which last week was moving swiftly, has received a hard check, little is known of the happenings either in Poland or Galicia. Military authorities believe that the Germans will seek some decisive engagement against the Russians, such as the capture of the Lublin-Chelm railway, before attempting any serious offensive in France and Belgium.

France.—Minor attacks, both by infantry and artillery, have occurred in Belgium and France, but there has been no happening of importance in that zone. A special dispatch from the field in France says the French forces are now in possession of the heights overlooking the plain of Flanders, after "battling 120 days for the hill country between Bethune and Arras." The losses on both sides during this almost continuous fighting have been very heavy, and this is merely one small section of the front, which extends from the North Sea almost to the Swiss border.

England.—King George, who recently paid a visit to the grand fleet, has sent a message to Admiral Jellicoe expressing the belief that "when ever the day of battle comes the British navy will add fresh triumphs to its old and glorious traditions."

Tuesday.
United States.—Consideration of the German reply to the American note overshadowed all else in the State Department. The situation was described in official quarters as extremely critical, with relations with Germany more strained than at any time in history. It was indicated that the United States, in the note in preparation, would state its intentions and that there would be no further argument on the principles involved. President Wilson will return to Washington at the end of the week.

England.—The German cruiser Königsberg, which last October took refuge in a shallow river in East Africa, has been destroyed by British river monitors, which were sent there for that special purpose. Two British cruisers engaged the guns on the banks of the river while the monitors completed the task. The Germans, although trapped in a position where maneuvering was out of the question, served their guns with accuracy and great bravery, and the British losses were four killed and six wounded. Ninety thousand men have reported for duty as munition workers in England. It was urged in Parliament that cotton be placed on the contraband list.

France.—The western front has again sprung into activity. The Germans have bombarded the allied positions in front of Neuport and Lombardzyde; have attacked the British at Ypres, and have delivered a heavy stroke against the French at Souchez. The engagement of chief importance in the neighborhood of Souchez, and while the honors, in the early part of the battle, went to the Germans, heavy counter attacks by the French resulted in the reoccupation of a portion of the trenches from Carency to the outskirts of Souchez. Asphyxiating gas bombs and fierce hand-to-hand encounters were features of this battle, which continues.

Russia.—Seemingly the Austro-Germans are resting on the victories they have gained in Galicia and Russian Poland. For the present they have almost entirely ceased their offensive, although news filters in of minor actions at isolated points.

Italy.—The Italian advance against the Austrian front is making slow headway. There are reports from the Italian side that the Austrians are being forced to withdraw, but from the Austrian side assurances are given that the Italian attacks are being repelled at all points.

Wednesday.
France.—A check to the army of the German Crown Prince in the Argonne forest and the forced retirement of the Germans in the face of an energetic counter attack by the French official communication.

England.—Two momentous announcements have been made by the British Government. The first is that Great Britain's latest war loan has met with great success, the subscriptions amounting to nearly $3,000,000,000. The second is that the munitions of war act will be applied to the coal-mining industry, making it an offense for the miners, who have threatened to strike, owing to a disagreement with the operators over wages, to leave the mines.

Eastern Front.—Little fighting is going on along the eastern front and in the Italian war zone. Nowhere in either of these theaters has there been an engagement of a sanguinary character, and no changes of importance in the battle lines are claimed by any of the war chancelleries.

Thursday.
United States.—President Wilson is expected to be in Washington Tuesday next to attend the Cabinet meeting and may present the draft of a note to be sent to Germany. Decision on the policy to be followed by the United States probably will be reached at this meeting. Before the President returns from Cornish, Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, will call on Secretary Lansing to explain at length the viewpoint of his Government.

France.—The Argonne forest in France, the region directly to the west of that wood and the sector to the north of Arras, are the scenes of the most violent infantry fighting now in progress on any of the numerous battlefronts. An allied air raid on Liber Court, between Douai and Lille, was successfully carried out by a squadron of heavy aeroplanes, which threw down numerous bombs.

Russia.—To the south of Lublin, which has been one of the objective points of the Austro-Germans in Russian Poland, where they hoped to establish themselves on a strong basis for a further advance toward Warsaw, there has been serious fighting, in which the Russians claim to have captured during the week ended July 11 officers and men to the number of 22,761.

England.—Although many thousands of coal miners in South Wales have decided to continue work, many more thousands have determined to stop work, despite the Government's application of the munitions-of-war act to the coal mining industry, making the miners liable to heavy fines if they quit the diggings.

The Dardanelles.—A belated report from Constantinople says that on Monday the allied forces made determined attacks by land and sea against the Turkish positions on the Gallipoli Peninsula, and were repulsed with heavy losses.

Field Mice.
Every farmer in the country is more or less acquainted with field mice. Other common names for these rodents are meadow mice, pine mice, moles, bear mice, bucktail mice and black mice. Where numerous they are decidedly injurious to farm crops. A very few of the rodents will cause serious injury to lawns and young orchards, gardens and nurseries.

In lawns and gardens the rodents may most successfully be combated by trapping. The guillotine type of mouse trap should be carefully placed in their runs. Persistent trapping will usually exterminate them. Other methods of combating them are poisoning, frequent cultivation of the soil and the protection of their natural enemies. Among the latter are foxes, raccoons, opossums, skunks, weasels, hawks, owls and crows.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 670, which may be secured free from the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., describes the habits and methods of destroying field mice and discusses the value of protecting their natural enemies.

DID NOT REDUCE COST OF LIVING

The Free-Traders Promised, But Their Tariff Has Failed to Make Good.

The cost of living is an issue which neither wars nor rumors of wars can keep in the background. "We have got to live" is the laconic statement which falls from human lips as mortals take a more tenacious hold upon the means which are designed to prolong existence.

And thus it is that, with a Presidential campaign only one year away our Democratic friends will soon be compelled to get their explanation bureau to work in day and night shifts to demonstrate that the Underwood Tariff law has no responsibility for increasing the cost of living which has taken place since the law was passed.

This charge is not made under any Republican authority. The Secretary of Labor and Commerce, a member of President Wilson's cabinet, has just issued a bulletin, showing that the cost of living is higher than it ever has been.

In a table including 15 articles which are deemed of vital importance to the workingman's dinner table this bulletin shows that the average price for the year 1914 was 2 per cent. higher than in 1913, and 5 1/2 per cent. higher than in 1912.

In other words the workingman is now paying an average price of 102 for what he got for 100 in 1913, and 97.4 in 1912.

The table furthermore shows that the price of these 15 articles has increased steadily since 1907, when the average was 81.9.

These department figures show that the cost of living has increased 2 per cent. since 1913; 4.7 per cent. since 1912; 11 per cent. since 1911; 9.8 per cent. since 1910; 15.1 per cent. since 1909; 21.1 per cent. since 1908; 24.5 per cent. since 1907.

Economic laws may be working which are responsible in part for the increase, in spite of any existing tariff, but the fact remains that the Democratic party gave the country the Underwood Tariff on the assurance that the Payne-Aldrich Tariff having increased the cost of living, the Democratic measure would reduce it.

These are facts with which the political parties will have to deal in the approaching Presidential campaign.

Traveling Man's Experience.

"In the summer of 1888 I had a very severe attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from four a. m. to 6 p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph for my family. Instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitute. I took a double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable everywhere. m

Livestock in Summer.

There has been a disposition to feed livestock very lightly if at all during the summer months upon the supposition that they do not need much feed and care during hot summer weather. This idea has been responsible for poor animals and considerable loss in livestock profits. It is an erroneous idea that has no foundation upon facts.

During the hot summer months animals kept for breeders or young animals, especially pigs, for pork when they are old enough need not be fat. In fact, breeding stock should be in "good flesh" and not fat unless they are on exhibition at shows and fairs, and even then it may interfere with breeding.

But animals need feed and care in summer as well as in winter. When the summer is hot a little less heat-producing feed, fat, such as grain and alfalfa, may be given, but plenty of hay, green food and enough grain should be fed to sustain the animals in good flesh.

It will be very important to feed the cows well or they will fail in their milk. Pastures may fail and if so green food must be supplied in silage, molasses, etc. Cows will not thrive in very warm weather without succulent food.

Besides fed animals should have plenty of shade and water. Some protection should also be given against flies, ticks and other pests.

The greatest care is necessary in taking the proper care of swine. Fat hogs will suffer in hot weather. It is best to market or they will suffer. The sows, shoats and herd boars should not be kept fat, but only in good condition.

Pasture is very essential for hogs when the weather is very warm. The pasture affords shade, water, green food and exercise, all of which are needed for hogs. There should be enough water for drinking and sufficient to allow them to wallow and cool their bodies.

Soiling crops, such as sorghum, alfalfa, corn, milo feterita etc. will help keep the hogs in living conditions with good health and appetite. Green corn and sorghum are perhaps the best crops to feed when green.

Horses will also need plenty of green food. While they are doing the heavy work of the farm, they will require considerable grain with hay and succulent feed. Oats make most excellent summer feed. They contain considerable protein and are relished by horses. Oats do not produce as much heat as corn, consequently are better for summer feed, as a general rule.

Legume hay is always relished by horses as well as cows. Those who have plenty of alfalfa, pea, peanut or soy bean hay are very fortunate, as these hays save grain.

For a concentrate cottonseed meal is excellent. Horses or mules doing heavy work should have one or two pounds per day of cottonseed meal. For lighter work less may be fed. Cows relish cottonseed meal and it stimulates the milk flow.

Sheep and goats need shade or shelter. A cool pasture is preferable. They could be spared before very hot weather for the animals' comfort as well as for profits. They will need plenty of hay, some grain and green stuff.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

In Memory.

Of Jennie York, who departed this life on the morning of April the twentieth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, aged sixteen years, two months and fourteen days. She leaves a father, mother, five sisters, and four brothers, besides a host of relatives and friends to mourn her sad departure.

Dearest sister thou hast left us,
And our hearts are sad and sore;
But we hope some day to meet you,
Where parting is no more.

We miss thee dearest sister,
There is thy vacant chair;
We miss thee, O we miss thee,
We miss thee everywhere.

A dear sister from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in the home,
That never can be filled.

From the ranks our sister is missing,
Yet to memory she is dear;
Still in spirit we behold her,
And in dreams she hovers near.

We shall meet her in the morning,
When our work on earth is done;
At the river, blessed river,
We shall greet her, one by one.

A Sister.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted for over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever. Obtainable everywhere. m

Holt Buried in Texas.

Dallas, Tex., July 11.—The body of Frank Holt was buried to-day in Oak Hill cemetery. The grave was piled with floral offerings from the friends of his family and his wife's family. Only a few carriages composed the funeral procession of the man who shot J. P. Morgan and later ended his own life, and the cortege passed through the streets almost unremarked. The arrival of the body in Dallas earlier in the day attracted slight attention.

At the grave many friends of the Rev. O. S. Sensabaugh, Holt's father-in-law, joined the family in the last rites. Mrs. Holt, calm, but very pale, held tightly to the hands of her two young children throughout the services.

BASE BALL DOPE

Hartford Gets Revenge at Central City.

With Col. Casebier at the helm, the East Enders journeyed thru the mud to Central City Sunday and just literally chewed up the famous DuPonts to the tune of 6 to 0.

Withrow was right and twirled a beautiful game allowing three scattered singles.

With two down in the first old Guy Welsh swatted the pellet over Davenport's head for three bases. Reid the next man up banged a clean hit over short which scored our beloved Guy. From then until the last of the third there was no more coming home. Then it rained bucketfuls, tubfuls, splashes and sheets for about twenty minutes. After the flood the game was continued with everyone expecting to see lots of errors and runs. The mud and water around home plate and second was about ankle deep and the ball looked like a mud pie. Here is where Withrow showed his class. He controlled that slick, muddy ball almost perfectly, walking only one man and allowing but two hits during those six slick, slimy, sessions.

Ward could not handle the gob of mud and retired in favor of Anderson who did little better. All the time the East Enders were leaning against the spere and running the runs around until they reached a total of six.

Hartford played an errorless game. The only times the DuPonts looked dangerous were in the fifth when Cundiff tried to score from second on a hit to short center. Plummer who played a great game in field and at bat, made a beautiful peg to Thorpe and headed Mr. Cundiff off by six feet. Another time they had second and third occupied with none out. Somebody lined to Welsh who fired the pie to Garrett. Garrett had the ball and the runner was ten feet off but oh! horrors Darb could not find the third sack in the mud, he finally scratched it out just as the runner made a dive for it. This same Garrett ran thru the crowd after what everyone thought was an impossible foul. He grabbed it off the fence. Thorpe pulled off about the same stunt. He ran way out by the end of the grand stand and gobbled one.

Charley Ox, sliding to the second buoy splashed water all over the left fielder. Col. Casebier says he did it on purpose but Ox says he just wanted to pull off a smooth slide. Anyway he stole the base.

It was a great game with flashes and sparkling plays thruout.

Elgin did lots of good on the coaching line. His busted finger kept him out of the game.
